

School of Graduate Studies and Research

Invites faculty, staff, and students to attend

Poetry Reading

Prof. LARRY GRIFFIN

Professor of Languages and Literature Department, School of Arts and Sciences and Author of

Cedar Plums

3:30-4:30 PM, Monday, May 16, 2016
Building G, Conference Room, Ground Floor

About the Book

Cedar Plums is an astonishing page-turner, a brilliant Technicolor hundred-and-fifty-shades-of-the-rainbow gathering of love poems, political poems, country music poems in all kinds of fantastic verse formats, with continual surprise on every page: Will it be steamy love-making or pol-roasting, gentle and tender love poems, Okie and Indian history, or maybe France and rolling beneath as the page turns? If justice prevails, this book will finally set Larry Griffin alongside the best American poets, where he belongs.

About the Reader

Larry D. Griffin has traveled widely in the United States and abroad and has published multiple genres in national and international journals. His chapbooks include New Fires, The Blue Water Tower, and The Jane Poems. Also a painter, photographer, and sculptor, Griffin has exhibited his art in many countries. His works may be found in private collections in Australia, China, Egypt, England, France, India, Ireland, Kazakhstan, Morocco, Nicaragua, Poland, Thailand, the USA, and other countries.